Lumley got the longest hit of the game in the seventh when he drove the ball over Becker's head in right field for three bases. He was caught at home, however, trying to stretch the hit into a home run. Sweeney's hitting was the feature of the game. The score:

PIANO GOOD AUTO BAIL.
Hugh Skinner, chauffeur of the New York Transportation Company's sightseeing automobiles which crashed into the bronze limpost at the courthouse of the Appellate Division, on Twenty-fifth street and Madison avenue, yesterday, was to-day held in $500 bail for trial. He was charged with not having a chauffeur's license before Magistrate Cornell in the Jefferson Market Court.

Bernard Chisholm, of No. 255 Hudson avenue, offered as bail for Skinner a $500 piano and the Magistrate accepted it.

Here a piano gives a man his freedom, said the Magistrate. "A few weeks ago a horse was offered for surety for a chauffeur, and I accepted it. Some one will offer to go on a chauffeur's bond with a pet baboon. It's funny."

MOTHER IS SLAIN AS SHE SLEEPS IN BED WITH BABIES

Mrs. Amelia Roach Shot to Death by Uncle, Robert F. Wood, Who Crept Into Her Room in a West Side Tenement.

As Mrs. Amelia Roach, a pretty young West Indian widow, lay sleeping between her two little children to-day in the room they occupied on the third floor of No. 401 West Fifty-third street, her uncle, Robert Francis Wood, crept into the room and shot her to death.

Bertram Roach, the four-year-old boy of the murdered woman, described the crime afterward in these words:

"I was waking up, an' saw Uncle Bob come in slow an' soft, an' he took out a gun and shoot my mamma two times—bang, bang! Den he run out."

The murderer killed in a savage passion, having been repulsed by his niece yesterday, when he made suggestions she would not tolerate. She was a woman of twenty-five and he, a man of fifty, proposed that he supplant her husband, without the formality of a marriage contract.

Swore He Would Kill Her.
The enraged man swore then to a cousin, Joseph McConney, that he would kill his pretty niece, and went to purchase a revolver. He lived in the house with the McConnys and Mrs. Roach. Mrs. McConney is a sister of Mrs. Roach.

Alarmed at the man's threats, the family sat up late into the night watching for him. When he did not return they concluded that his anger had probably cooled, and all went to bed and to sleep.

It was about 6 o'clock this morning that he crept into the house to slay, and no one awakened save the little child who saw him and was too terrified to cry out. Two-year-old Sarah Roach was asleep in her mother's arms when the two bullets were fired into her temple and jaw.

Slayer Makes His Escape.
The slayer escaped with the same speed and stealth with which he had entered to kill. James Curran, a waiter at the Manhattan Club, who lives in the house, saw Wood going out after the murder, and watched him walk swiftly in the direction of Ninth avenue. But Curran was unaware of the crime. Thus far no trace of the murderer has been obtained.

The man had been a farmer in New Jersey up to the time Mrs. Roach and the McConnys came to New York from St. Elizabeth, parish of St. Joseph, Barbadoes, about a year ago. Constance Roach, the husband, was alive then. He had been a policeman in Barbadoes, and hoped to get on the force in this city. But on the voyage from the West Indies he contracted spinal meningitis and died four days after his arrival in New York.

Boarded With Niece.
Wood, immediately after this, became a boarder in the flat his niece and the McConnys took. In the same house there are a score of other McConnys, to all of whom the murdered woman and the slayer are related.

Until a few weeks ago Wood was employed as a houseman in the Hotel Waldorf.

He was out of the McConney apartments and well away on his flight before Mrs. Lawrence McConney got into the bedroom and found her cousin dead. She had been aroused by the shots, but it was not until the little boy cried out that she was fully awake. She awoke her brother-in-law, Joseph McConney, and Mrs. Joseph McConney, sister of Mrs. Roach. They found a policeman, and an ambulance was summoned. The surgeon said that the bullet in the young widow's temple had killed her instantly.

"KID" EBERFELD IS SUSPENDED INDEFINITELY

Umpire—O'Loughlin.

(Special to The Evening World.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 29.—Norman Eberfeld, manager of the New York Highlanders, has drawn an indefinite suspension from President Ben Johnson for a run-in he had with Umpire "Silk" O'Loughlin in yesterday's game with the Browns.

Eberfeld didn't like one of O'Loughlin's decisions, and told him so in pretty loud words. He was banished from the game, and the scrappy leader took a seat in one of the box seats. O'Loughlin turned around and spied the "Kid," and told him to vacate. Eberfeld did not hurry, and O'Loughlin had a policeman escort the commander off the grounds.

The suspension is indefinite and may run to the end of the season.

The first game between the Highlanders and Browns was little less than a farce. Lake was very easy, and, to make matters worse, his support was bogus. Howell baffled the visitors all the way. The crowd was the smallest one of the season, not over 1,200. Jones drove in the Browns' first two runs with a stinging single to center.

Hits by Ferris and Spencer, a pass to Wallace and errors by Ball and Sweeney settled the trial in the sixth inning. Jones got hit at the start of the seventh, and he made the circuit on two errors by Ball.

Ball was the worst comedian. He got four of the Yankees' six errors. The game was such a farce that in the closing inning the Highlanders did not have any coaches up.
